Disclaimer

The Agricultural Affairs Office at the U.S. Embassy in Beijing provides this report for information purposes only. Readers should be aware that China Customs data in this report will not match other countries' export statistics due to the timing of exports (e.g., trade recorded in an exporting country in one month may not show up in China's data until the following month). Furthermore, values from one country to another will vary due to disparity in recording methods (e.g., FOB vs. CIF/landed price). Also, inconsistencies may exist as a result of Hong Kong or Macau re-export trade to or from China. Finally, some inconsistencies may result from different classification of goods (e.g., hard wheat from one country may be classified as durum by China).

"HTS" refers to Harmonized Tariff System. At the two, four, and six-digit level, tariff line items/descriptions for all countries are harmonized; more precise categories may differ between countries. Commodity descriptions are increasingly precise as the number of digits increase. "Not elsewhere specified or indicated" is abbreviated NESOI.

Additionally, it is useful to recognize that trade data for many of these commodities are more accurately depicted on a marketing year basis, as reported in individual commodity reports.

Agricultural commodities refer to those commodities identified in Annex I of the Uruguay round of agricultural negotiations. Fishery commodities refer to commodities recognized in HTS Chapters 03.02 through 03.07, 16.04, and 16.05. Forestry commodities refer to HTS codes referred to in U.S. Trade Reports for Forest Products excluding pulp and paper.

The United States remains China's largest supplier of agricultural, fishery, and forestry products. China's imports of these commodities from the United States ($1,422 million) increased by 22 percent in comparison to this time last year. Soybeans ($930 million) remain the highest value import in all commodities categories. Among other commodities, certain hides and skins ($109 million) follows at a distant. Frozen chicken cuts imports from the United States ($66 million) holds its position as the third, which, from this time last year, is up by 98 percent. However, there's a 65-percent decrease compared with the previous year for cotton imports ($60 million).

At the four-digit HTS level, China's imports of soybeans ($930 million) fall as the second highest value imports of any agricultural or non-agricultural commodities from the United States.

China's $1,422 million in agricultural, fishery, and forestry imports from the U.S. from January to February surpasses total imports from over 200 individual countries/ customs territories including: Italy ($1,417 million), Chile ($1,340 million), Angola ($1,281 million), Oman ($1,080 million), United Kingdom ($1,036 million).
