Report Highlights:

Thanks to FAS Lima's intervention, Peru has granted market access to U.S.-origin pork back fat and skin (Harmonized System – HS code 0209.10.90). SENASA, Peru's sanitary authority, published in the official gazette (El Peruano) on March 5, 2014, Directorial Resolution 0003-2014-MINAGRI-SENASA-DSA specifying sanitary import requirements for this product. Shipments arriving in Peru must count with a SENASA issued import permit, as well as with an official U.S. phytosanitary certificate. An unofficial translation of the resolution is contained herein.

General Information:

Thanks to FAS Lima's timely intervention on behalf of a new-to-market exporter, Peru has commenced granting market access to U.S.-origin pork back fat and skin (Harmonized System – HS code 0209.10.90). Working with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS) and FAS Washington, DC colleagues, FAS Lima succeed in persuading the National Agricultural Sanitary and Phytosanitary Service (SENASA – Peru's sanitary authority) to published in the official gazette (El Peruano) on March 5, 2014, Directorial Resolution 0003-2014-MINAGRI-SENASA-DSA.

This new resolution now clarifies and specifies Peru's import requirements for this product. Shipments arriving in Peru must count with a SENASA issued import permit, as well as with an official U.S. phytosanitary certificate. An unofficial translation of the new aforementioned resolution follows.
