Report Highlights:
Punjab AGRI TECH 2014, an exhibition and conference on agricultural technology, will be held on February 20-23, 2014, in Mohali, Punjab, India. The four day exhibition and conference is organized by Government of Punjab in association with the PHD Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

General Information:
The following information is extracted from the exhibition’s promotional brochure.

Punjab AGRI TECH 2014, an exhibition and conference on agricultural technology, will be held on February 20-23, 2014, at sector 62, phase-7, Mohali, Punjab, India. The four-day exhibition and conference are organized by Government of Punjab in association with the PHD Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Mr. Parkash Singh Badal, Honorable Chief Minister of Punjab, will inaugurate the event.

This will be an agricultural technology and business fair aimed at transforming agriculture from subsistence to profitable, localized to globalized, and production-driven to market-driven. The exhibition will showcase the latest innovations and new technologies, offer companies a great opportunity to do business and interact with farmers, firms and entrepreneurs from various countries and states of India.

More than 300 exhibitors are expected to participate in the exhibition under exclusive industry- and sector-specific pavilions and over 100,000 visitors comprising farmers, entrepreneurs, researchers, scientists, faculty, students and other stakeholders will visit the fair and attend the technical sessions and seminars.

The highlights of AgriTech 2014 will be the exhibition of agriculture and allied activities, live demonstrations of the latest agricultural farm implement and equipment, technical sessions and conferences, kisan sammelans (farmer seminars), panchayat (municipal council) and cultural extravaganza.
